Town petitions may be flawed

Objections could negate Partney's drive for vote

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Granite City residents may not have a chance to decide if the township form of government should be continued in the city.

Mayoral candidate David Partney filed petitions this week to place a referendum on the Nov. 5 ballot asking Granite City residents if the township organization should be continued.

But because of an apparent flaw in the manner the petitions were circulated, the question may not be put to voters in November.

Three of the people who circulated the petitions apparently did so before registering to vote. State law requires persons to be registered to vote when circulating petitions.

According to records in City Clerk Judy Whitaker's office, Misty Hammond, Kristen Willis and Cassy Rose all registered on Aug. 16.

The three women obtained about 25 pages containing about 550 of the 1,890 signatures on the petitions filed.

Madison County Clerk Debbie Saltich determined that Partney needed 1,835 signatures to place the question on the ballot. If the petitions circulated by Hammond, Willis and Rose are thrown out, Partney would not have the required number of signatures to place the question on the ballot.

While the petitions contain no circulation date — the only date on the petitions is the date they were notarized — sources told the Press-Record Tuesday that the women will testify under oath that they obtained some signatures prior to registering.

Chouteau Township Clerk Barbara Overton, secretary of the Madison County Township Officials' organization, filed a freedom of information request with Whitaker this week asking for copies of the petitions. Overton said she wanted the copies to possibly file an objection to the petitions.

> Three of the people who circulated the petitions apparently did so before registering to vote. State law requires persons to be registered to vote when circulating petitions.

Granite City Township Assessor Darlene Laub has also said the petitions will be challenged.

Partney declined to comment on the matter Wednesday.

Granite City and its township are coterminous — they share the same geographic and political boundaries. Officials elected to the city council also serve on the township board of trustees.

The petitions call for the following question to be put to township voters:

"Should township organization be continued in the city of Granite City?"

A "yes" vote would be in favor of continuing township government. A "no" vote would be in favor of eliminating it.

Partney has said that the township form of government in Granite City is inefficient and is a duplication of services. He said township residents would see lower property tax bills if the township government was eliminated and services were provided

Tavern, patrons robbed

Gunmen wear ski masks, get more than $1,000

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Three suspects wearing ski masks and armed with handguns took more than $1,000 from a Granite City tavern and its patrons Monday night.

Police have few leads in the armed robbery at Wayside Tavern, 2160 Washington Avenue, Assistant Police Chief Kip Pomeroy said.

Two of the three suspects displayed handguns while taking cash from the bar and from four patrons just after 10 p.m. Monday, according to a police report.

The bartender told police the three men entered the bar wearing ski masks. One of the men displayed a gun and demanded money from the cash register, the report states.

> The three men entered the bar wearing ski masks. One of the men displayed a gun and demanded money from the cash register.

The woman complied, but that didn't satisfy the robber, who stated "...that ain't all of it," the woman told police.

She then handed over $20 from a cigar box and later handed one of the robbers two bank bags from a lock box, each containing cash, the report states.

The woman was ordered to the floor and kicked in the ribs, she said.

Wallets and a purse were taken from other patrons of the bar, who were also told to lie on the floor.

When one of the male patrons was told to give up his watch, a female patron removed the rings from her fingers and put them in her mouth, she told police.

The three suspects were described as black males, about 20 years of age and between 5 feet, 6 inches and 6 feet tall. All wore dark clothing, witnesses said.

Killing prompts judge's absence

Madison County Circuit Court Judge Ann Callis-Rongey has taken a temporary leave of absence while authorities search for the killer of Greenville City Attorney Thomas Meyer.

Callis-Rongey left the courthouse two days after the Aug. 12 murder. She has not been back.

Authorities said only that she has gone to a "safe place."

The sole suspect in the murder, Kelly L. McGinnis, 40, of Greenville, is still at large. Meyer represented McGinnis' ex-wife in recent divorce and custody proceedings.

Callis-Rongey is considered a possible target of McGinnis' anger because she presided over the divorce case.

Chief Judge Nicholas Byron said Monday he had granted the leave last week in compliance with a request from the St. Louis Major Case

Warfield takes Hagnauer seat

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

After a three-month vacancy, Madison County Board District 20 once again has representation.

During Wednesday's county board meeting, Chairman Rudy Papa named Mac Warfield, 64, of Granite City to the seat. Warfield replaces Bernadine Hagnauer, wife of former county board chairman Nelson Hagnauer, who died May 18.

Although appointed to her late husband's seat, Bernadine Hagnauer attended no meetings before resigning last month.

Before Papa appointed Warfield, County Clerk Debbie Saltich read a letter of resignation from Nelson Hagnauer's widow. The letter was dated July 15.

Man charged with battery

The former boyfriend of a Granite City woman was charged with aggravated unlawful restraint and aggravated battery with a deadly weapon after he allegedly held the woman hostage in her home and slashed the woman repeatedly with a knife.

Ronald Rhoades, 32, of the 2200 block of Illinois Avenue, was charged in a felony warrant issued Tuesday afternoon. He was being held on $50,000 bond.

The victim, a 35-year-old resident of the 2400 block of Adams Street, was cut on her forehead, left arm, chest and right leg, according to a police report.

The injuries were not life threatening, Assistant Police Chief Kip Pomeroy said.

She told police she had not seen Rhoades since breaking off her relationship with him six months ago when Rhoades appeared at her door late Monday night.

The woman sent her 12-year-old stepson to his room when Rhoades began singing sexually suggestive songs to her and pinched her breast, the report states.

About 10 minutes later the woman, after sustaining multiple cuts, told the boy to call police. He ran out a door and called police.

Rhoades was arrested on the front porch of the woman's home. The victim had thrown his bag out the front door and then locked him out when he went to fetch it.

Hearing tonight

Permanent site sought for yard waste disposal

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Granite City residents can voice their opinions tonight about a proposal for a permanent city-sponsored yard waste disposal facility.

Lakin

The proposal, offered by Street Superintendent Jerry Lakin, would establish a permanent site where residents can drop off leaves, grass and brush without charge.

A public hearing on the proposal will be held at 7 p.m. tonight in the City Council chambers at City Hall.

Because burning of leaves is prohibited in the city and landfills will no longer accept yard waste at no charge, residents need a solution to yard waste disposal problems, Lakin said.

"We're trying to save the city money, provide a service for residents and save them some money as well," he said.

The city has utilized several temporary disposal sites in recent years, but environmental regulations prompted the city and Lakin to seek approval for a permanent location. An application for a transfer station permit has already been filed with the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

Residents may comment on the proposal in person or in writing. Written comments should be addressed to City Clerk Judy Whitaker and will be accepted 30 days after the hearing.

The City Council can vote on the plan after the public comment period closes.

The proposed site comprises about two acres of a five-acre tract of land located off 25th Street, between Center Street and the Norfolk and Western railroad tracks.

Plans for the site call for a fence surrounding the property and berms and trees to provide screening.

The proposed site comprises about two acres of a five-acre tract of land located off 25th Street, between Center Street and the Norfolk and Western railroad tracks. Plans for the site call for a fence surrounding the property and berms and trees to provide screening.

Lakin plans to mulch yard waste material with a chipper and remove it to other locations, where it will be recycled as compost or mulch.

Lakin has said he will ask the city to purchase a $181,000 tub grinder for the operation. The grinder would be used to make mulch from yard waste, including tree limbs of up to six inches in diameter.

Lakin will also ask that a 24-feet-wide, asphalt roadway be built to provide access to the site. That cost is estimated at $10,000.

The total approximate cost of the construction is $232,000, but Lakin said the project would pay for itself quickly.

Last year, the city paid more than $185,500 to remove brush and dump it at a landfill.

The only potential problem Lakin said he can foresee is odor.

He said he plans to apply a chemical to neutralize the smell that could be generated by the yard waste.

Referendum petitions filed

Granite City voters will apparently get to decide if they should continue to be ruled — and taxed — by both city and township forms of government.

David Partney, who has announced plans to run for mayor of the city next April, filed petitions late Monday afternoon to have a referendum placed on the Nov. 5 ballot.

The petitions call for the following question to be put to township voters:

"Should township organization be continued in the city of Granite City?".

A "yes" vote would be in favor of continuing township government. A "no" vote would be in favor of eliminating it.

I-270 repair on schedule

A major renovation of Interstate 270 is moving quickly — a lot faster than traffic on the road during rush hour.

Since June 1, workers have been renovating bridges and the eastbound lanes along an 8-mile stretch of I-270 from I-255 to the Missouri state line.

Work on the first phase — the eastbound lanes — is about 25 percent finished. That part of the project is expected to be completed in November 1997.

While workers fix one of the eastbound lanes, traffic is restricted to one lane each way and a reversible express lane.

The total project is estimated to cost approximately $50 million and will last through the fall of 1999.

Fire delays school opening

Jadie Johnson of Pontoon Beach expected her two children to begin school Monday at Bethel Christian Academy in South Roxana.

Instead, they stayed home while teachers and parents went through piles of smoke- and water-damaged books and office supplies — all that is left after a spectacular fire Friday afternoon.

Nobody was hurt in the fire, which destroyed the Bethel Free Will Baptist Church. Damage has been estimated at about $1.2 million, and church and school officials said they plan to rebuild as quickly as they can.

Costello denies link to Cueto

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello has denied having secret business dealings with St. Clair County lawyer Amiel Cueto, who has been charged in a federal indictment with obstructing justice in a gambling ring investigation.

"Media reports have suggested that I was a secret partner in a business relationship with Amiel Cueto. That is absolutely false," Costello said in a statement issued last week.

The Belleville Democrat, who is seeking a fifth term, was in Alaska on congressional business with the U.S. Coast Guard, according to the statement.

"Since selling my interest in a jointly-owned convenient mart held with Amiel Cueto in August of 1992, I have not had any business relationship with Amiel Cueto," Costello's statement said.

Democrats blast GOP tax plan

It didn't take local Democrats long to criticize Republican Presidential Nominee Bob Dole's economic plans.

Dole said Thursday night at the GOP's national convention that, if elected, he plans to reduce taxes by 15 percent across the board, to cut the tax on capital gains, to reform the tax code to make it "fairer, flatter and simpler" and to "end the IRS as we know it."

Friday morning at a press conference in Belleville, Democratic U.S. Senate nominee Dick Durbin, U.S. Rep. from the D-20th District; and State Rep. Jay Hoffman, the Democratic nominee to succeed Durbin in the U.S. House, blasted the Dole economic plan as a return to "voodoo economics" of the Reagan era.

"Bob Dole thinks America is suffering from political amnesia," Durbin said.

Accused officer reassigned

A Venice police officer accused of pointing his gun at a man during an argument in Granite City in June has been reassigned to desk duty.

Stephen M. Koelker, 27, was charged with aggravated assault, a special misdemeanor, on Wednesday. On Thursday, he was reassigned to duty as a dispatcher and told not to wear his sidearm, Police Chief James E. Newsome said.

Newsome said he would see what comes of the charge before recommending any disciplinary action.

Church fire was not arson

SOUTH ROXANA — The Rev. Bill Crank breathed a sigh of relief upon learning an arsonist did not start a fire that destroyed the Bethel Free Will Baptist Church.

"Our insurance company representative told me that the fire broke out in a roof area," said Crank, pastor of the church. "We don't know the exact cause of the fire. But we thank the Lord it was not arson."

A roofing company had been repairing the roof of the church, but no one was working on the day of the fire, an insurance company representative said.

Firefighters from South Roxana and several other fire departments battled the fire Friday in the 18-year-old church building and school at 1417 Herbert Ave.

The fire was not caused by arson," South Roxana Fire Chief Jim Eich said.

Eich was waiting Tuesday for the results of a fire investigation by the FBI and federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Church officials and their insurance company are getting estimates from contractors to rebuild the church and school on the 11-acre site near the burned building, Crank said.

The church has approximately $1.1 million worth of insurance to construct a new church and Bethel Christian Academy School.

"We're hoping the insurance will cover the rebuilding and the cost of furnishings and supplies for the school," the pastor said.

The congregation will hold a morning worship service at 10:45 a.m. Sunday at a site to be announced this week, Crank said.

Several area churches have offered their education buildings as a temporary site for a school for 68 children, said Crank, who is also the school principal.

"Our goal is to start school on Sept. 3 at a temporary location," he said.

Crank's telephone has been ringing with calls from people wanting to help the church.

"Churches and people have called with offers of furniture and office supplies," Crank said.

People who want to donate money to help the church can write checks to Building Fund and mail them to Bethel Free Will Baptist Church, Box 535, South Roxana, Ill., 62087, the pastor said.

Parking lot's cost reduced

Madison County officials get to shave off $80,000 from the estimated cost of a stormwater project that is part of a new parking lot at the county jail, city officials said.

The county originally estimated the stormwater project at $100,000, which would have boosted the overall cost of the lot to $300,000.

County Buildings Committee members, who had objected to the estimated cost, sat down with Mayor Gary Niebur and Sue Mueller, city public works director, to discuss the project two weeks ago.

Mueller said Tuesday the county's original estimate was too high and estimated that the cost for the sewer should only be $20,000. The formula used to estimate the sewer is the same used by any developer building a parking lot in the city, she said.

Board attempt to fire GCHS teacher fails

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Two Granite City School Board members tried to fire a Granite City High School teacher Tuesday night because the teacher, a man, allegedly gave a female student his home telephone number.

But five other board members disagreed with that plan and said that there was no evidence of grossly inappropriate behavior by the teacher — even though district administrators set up and secretly listened in on a telephone conversation between the teacher and the student.

"We do not feel that there is any danger to students," Superintendent Steve Balen said Wednesday.

Eventually, the school board unanimously approved a motion by board member Walt Whitaker to have the administration prepare a remedial plan for the teacher.

Three weeks ago, the teacher approached a reporter and said that he had given the student his unlisted home telephone number, but that his intentions were completely honorable.

"She seemed to be really down (depressed) that day and I just thought if she had a problem, I could cheer her up," the teacher said, adding that in retrospect he realizes it was unwise to give a student his home telephone number.

The girl first approached her boyfriend about the incident and then told her parents and school administrators, school district sources said.

School administrators instructed the girl to call the teacher at home and listened in on the telephone conversation without the teacher's knowledge, sources said.

A transcript of the conversation shows that the teacher did not make any comments warranting dismissal on the telephone, school district sources confirmed Tuesday.

> 'She seemed to be really down (depressed) that day and I just thought if she had a problem, I could cheer her up.'
> — Teacher

In fact, when the girl told the teacher she thought it was inappropriate for him to give her his telephone number, the teacher repeatedly apologized to the student, according to the transcript.

Balen declined to comment specifically about the incident, but said remediation plans typically include a diagnostic period, establishing goals for the teacher and controls, and later determining if the goals are being met.

The plan, which must be approved by the board next week, could include a psychiatric evaluation of the teacher, identification of a district mentor to work with the teacher, counseling and/or moving the teacher to another school building.

The motion to prepare a remedial plan followed a failed motion by board member Ron Dillard to terminate the teacher's employment.

That motion, seconded by board president Eldin Rea, failed by a 5-2 vote, with Dillard and Rea voting to fire the teacher.

School board members said the district currently has no written policy about teacher fraternization with students outside of school activities, but that one is needed.

Balen said that the administration will begin preparing a policy immediately.

Goodwin resigns steel post

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

As expected, the board of directors of National Steel Corp. appointed its chairman, Osamu Sawaragi, as chief executive officer Monday.

The surprise was that V. John Goodwin, who served as president and chief operating officer since June 1994 and as chief executive officer since July of last year, resigned.

In a press release issued last week by National Steel, the parent company of Granite City Steel, the company announced that Goodwin was expected to remain with the company as COO.

In response to Goodwin's resignation, John Maczuzak, who was recently named vice president and general manager of Granite City Steel, was appointed executive vice president and acting COO.

Goodwin will remain with the company in a consulting capacity to aid in the transition period, according to a press release.

Goodwin

"National Steel has benefited tremendously under Mr. Goodwin's leadership," Sawaragi said. "The operations improvement and strategic direction laid out by Mr. Goodwin point toward a promising future for the customers, shareholders and employees of National.

"While I regret Mr. Goodwin's decision to resign, I will value his advice as he helps me during this transition period."

Goodwin left U.S. Steel Corp. to join National Steel in 1994. Under Goodwin's leadership, National Steel turned a $1.072 billion loss in operating income in 1993 into a $71.7 million gain in 1994 and $1.363 billion gain last year.

"I am looking forward to working with Mr. Maczuzak and continuing progress that has been started under Mr. Goodwin," Sawaragi said. "Mr. Maczuzak's leadership and broad-based knowledge of the steel business will bring continued improvement to National, which will allow us to better serve our customers and shareholders."

Sawaragi joined National Steel's parent company, NKK Corp., in 1952. he has been a director of National Steel since 1990 and was elected chairman in 1994. He will continue in that capacitty in addition to his new duties.

Maczuzak joined National Steel in May after serving 31 years in various capacities for U.S. Steel, its subsidiary companies and joint ventures.

Bob Maxwell, manager for public relations at Granite City Steel, said no decision has been announced concerning who will succeed Maczuzak as vice president and general manager at the local division.

"That'll probably be announced in a couple of weeks," Maxwell said.

Opinion

Carol's comments

She can do without pain

Carol Clarkin

Sometime earlier in the summer I read something that, momentarily, struck me as semi-profound.

I can't remember where I read it or who should be credited with saying it. Because I made no copy, I will have to paraphrase it.

The gist of the quote is that people who have never been frightened, embarrassed or hurt have never taken a gamble and have probably missed a lot of life's excitement.

But the more I thought about it, the more glib it sounded rather than deeply insightful. "Hurt," by the way, wasn't defined. Physically hurt? Hurt feelings?

You don't have to take a chance to have any of these things happen to you. They go with the territory of life and they happen to all of us.

Granted that I've known a few clods who may be incapable of embarrassment or, for that matter, having hurt feelings but I'll bet the farm that at some time, they've been scared and physically hurt. I can't count the times I've been embarrassed and/or hurt.

Frightened?

Innumerable times for the welfare of my children and others I've loved, but for myself, I don't scare easily. I was moderately scared once in my early teens on a weekend in a fishing camp on the Illinois River, a few miles south of Matanzas Beach. Three drunken men, straight out of "Deliverance," invaded our cottage.

Our favorite English teacher was chaperoning our crowd of nine and none of us had ever thought of her as particularly stern, but facing up to those louts, she became an instant Amazon, driving them out with their tails between their legs.

Exciting? Oh, yeah! But fright was superficial. We had unbounded faith in Miss Miller and we figured there were 10 of us compared to three of them. Had we been a little older, we might have considered that the camp was a good mile from the highway, with no other cottages around, and that the three guys, drunk or not, were grown men and we were still very young girls.

I was more frightened on the occasion that my cousin, Joe Stueland, decided to teach me to crew for him. We got caught in a heavy wind-and-rain storm about two miles out on Lake Michigan and the sailboat capsized.

Even then I wasn't especially terrified. I was wearing a life jacket, for one thing, and I had tremendous faith in Joe, who was not only a good sailor but had capsized boats before.

"Stay with me, hang onto the boat, and wait it out, the Coast Guard will be along soon," Joe told me, and I did as he ordered.

Most importantly, he was right.

Once back at the dock, Joe and I decided that discretion was the better part of valor and it might be wise to simply omit the details and tell his parents we were caught in the rain. What they didn't know wouldn't hurt them. Or us.

But in terms of unrelenting terror, nothing in my life can compare to the time I thought I'd killed the sheriff's son.

Max, the boy in question, was a classmate (first or second grade) and, I thought, my good buddy. One fine spring afternoon we were en route home from school and had just reached the two-block so-called business district of our small town when another boy from our class joined us and immediately got on Max's case about being seen publicly with a girl. Only sissies did that; real guys, never!

Naturally, I expected Max to defend our friendship but instead, he immediately knuckled under to the other kid and both boys turned on me, taunting me by stating the worthlessness of my gender.

I was shocked, hurt, and enraged (in that order) and without a second's thought, turned on Max and with both hands pushed him as hard as I could in the chest.

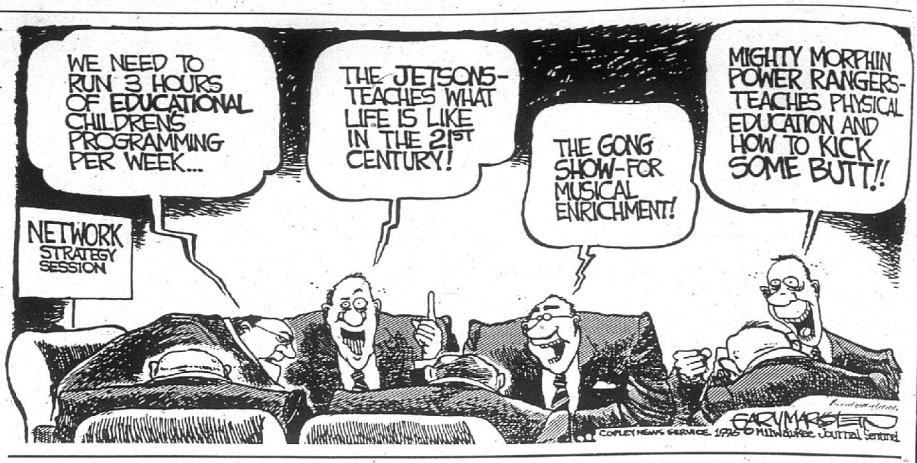

He wasn't expecting the attack, went down like the proverbial ton of bricks, striking the back of his head on the sharp edge of a concrete step: instant gushing of blood, more than I'd ever seen in my life.

"You've killed him! Boy, are you gonna get it when his dad catches up with you!" the other boy screamed.

I ran for home, but through alleys and back yards, in total terror. I wouldn't go out to play (which should have tipped my mother off that I'd been up to no good, but didn't) and spent the first sleepless night of my life, convinced that Max was dead, that any second the sheriff would be knocking at our front door and that I'd spend the rest of my life behind bars.

None of which happened. Max was at school the next day, his head swathed in bandages and I learned that his dad, the feared sheriff, had said simply "That's what you get for teasing girls."

If that kind of fear makes for an exciting life, count me out. Once was enough.

Letters to the editor

Bureaucracy oppressive

TO THE EDITOR:

Recently I was talking to a close friend who has retired from a career in public education.

His disgust of the paperwork and the endless rules and regulations forced upon the schools by the bureaucracy was evident as he related his experiences to me. He knew, of course, that some exchange of paperwork and information was necessary and beneficial, but the never-ending piles of paperwork was oppressive and seemed to grow daily.

The inefficiency of redundancy, or lack of need of many of the regulations, was of no concern of the federal bureaucracy; its only concern was compliance. So I could appreciate how he felt when he landed the superintendent's job in an affluent school district.

This district was financed so well that it did not need federal money, so he ignored the requested paperwork. Academic standards and results, after all, were the best indication of how well the school was doing, and here they were quite good.

Repeated requests that the paperwork be completed were ignored, and in due time, this smug-feeling superintendent was contacted by a Department of Education official. When the official asked him why he had not responded to requests to fill out the forms, my friend's response was that they were unnecessary and time consuming, and that the district would have to hire extra personnel to fill them out.

He was told that filling out the paper was not optional; so my friend, knowing that the affluence of the district put him in the driver's seat asked, "So what will happen if we don't?"

"You will receive no federal funding," came back the threat immediately.

Gleefully my friend responded, "We don't need your money." And that was that, or so he thought.

Next a letter appeared in the local papers asking, "Why is your Superintendent of Schools refusing federal funding?" Soon it was evident that a letter-writing campaign was under way by D.O.E. people, and eventually my friend was forced, by public opinion, to comply.

The D.O.E. did not appreciate the fact that because this school district did not need the funding, the money could be used in a district that did, or saved. Their only concern was that the district comply lest other districts take the same action.

The compelling fact is that we do not need the Department of Education — it needs us. The continued existence of this department is precarious, because since its inception, the drastic drop in the scholastic abilities of public school graduates, is matched by the wildly rising cost of public education. If the department has anything to offer, it is only conformity. Conformity of mediocre results at spiraling cost.

Republican plans to eliminate the department are justified and should be encouraged.

Salvi, Durbin split on guns

TO THE EDITOR:

Since U.S. Senate candidate Al Salvi supports the rights of law abiding citizens to own firearms for both sporting and defensive uses, perhaps the opponent Richard Durbin (Democrat) will expand upon his views.

Durbin says he supports gun control as police officers favor such; however, when Law Enforcement Technology polled its readership, they found 75 percent do not favor gun control . . . with street officers opposing it by as much as 85 percent.

Durbin needs to be truthful for a change and admit he supports Le Roy Martin types (a Chicago police superintendent and a vociferous advocate of gun prohibition). Martin, after a trip to China, pronounced his admiration for the Chinese system of criminal justice and suggested that in the U.S. zones should be created where the Constitution would be suspended. Isn't that a happy (police state) thought?

To reduce the number of incidents of drug gangs fighting over territory, which view does Durbin think will prove more effective: the once heralded multi-million dollar midnight basketball program...or the strikingly opposite but more recent curfew proposal?

"Armed and Considered Dangerous," a National Institute of Justice study by L. Wright and P. Rossis, found that 72 percent of felons in state prison considered to be handgun predators would switch to sawed off shotguns if handguns became unavailable.

If banning firearms would solve the crime problem, would Durbin vote in favor of a ban on the civilian ownership of handguns? Shotguns? If not, why?

A Handgun Control Inc. confidential memo dated Jan. 6, 1994, details how, under the guise of ever increasing license fees, registration, etc., gun ban advocates plan to gradually deprive Americans of their Constitutional right to own firearms.

If law abiding gun owners don't already know it, then let me say that Tricky Dicky Durbin would most assuredly vote for Brady II containing some, or all, of the above.

Remember, a vote for Al Salvi is a vote for protecting the rights for which our Founding Fathers fought and included in our Constitution.

Mihalich fails on issues

TO THE EDITOR:

Jim Mihalich is really starting to show his inexperience as a politician. He has failed over and over to research the issues on which he chooses to take a stand.

Take "chain gangs" for instance. Ron Wait, a senior Republican legislator, tried to carry the bill, and he pulled it off the floor.

It received so much heat from both his own party, the Republican party, and the Democratic party that he had no choice but to drop it. Individuals from both parties were so adamantly opposed to both the necessary increase in funding for prisoners and the obvious security problems for officers that they spoke out against it.

Furthermore, the program has proven dramatically ineffective in states that have tried it.

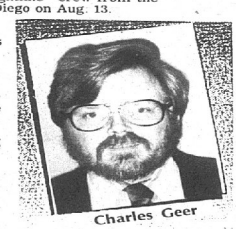

Take "English only" as another example. Mihalich is all for it, but his Republican partners funded this plan in their $34 billion dollar state budget. His own party thought that funding education for those who want to learn was so important that they included them in this year's budget.

Of course, having few Polish or Hispanic immigrants in our district, it is not as important to us, but it is important to Chicago. When it comes right down to it, even if this law would get moving (and there would be far too much opposition from both parties trying to protect their minority populations), it would not bring any money into our area nor would we save any money.

Why don't you do a little research next time, Jim?

Election becomes ad campaign

Charles Geer

opinion shapers

Ted Koppel withdrew his "Nightline" crew from the Republican convention in San Diego on Aug. 13.

He plans not to cover the Democratic convention in Chicago later this month. In his announcement, he noted political conventions are now little more than "infomercials" for their candidates.

I would take Koppel's statement one step further. The presidential election process as of late has become nothing more than a gigantic, year-long infomercial.

The Republicans in San Diego, the Democratics in Chicago and, yes, even the Reform Party in Long Beach are not so much building political platforms as they are masterminding huge advertising campaigns — campaigns to sell Bob or Bill or Ross as the man to lead the United States out of the 20th century and into a new golden era.

In that sense, it's just as much a marketing plan as those endless reminders that "if its got to be clean, its got to be Tide" or the warning to "don't risk it, Wisk it."

Politicians sell themselves — and unsell their opponents — in a manner that makes the Coke vs. Pepsi feud look tame. Remember the commercial in which a truckload of Pepsi was mistakenly sent to a senior citizens' center? The truckload of Coke intended for the seniors ended up at a college dorm, and, by the end of the message, the Pepsi-drinking seniors were boogying while the Coke-chugging fraternity boys were playing bingo.

Politicians aren't even that subtle.

Mr. Opponent is depicted in harsh black and white as the worst human being this side of Hannibal Lecter. The announcer treats Mr. Opponent with all the warmth usually reserved for a nest of cockroaches.

Then on comes Mr. Candidate in soft-focused, glowing colors (if the American flag magically unfurls behind Mr. Candidate's head, so much the better). In seconds, the voice-over switches from caustic to charming. As Brian Dennehy notes in his stomach-acid commercial, "that's not sincerity, that's acting."

It usually takes just 30 seconds to leave an impression. Which, for me, is reaching for the remote control the next time that message comes on.

In an apparent effort to avoid the attack of the channel changers, the Republicans purchased time on one of the cable channels, boasting of their "unconventional" convention, with coverage "unfiltered" by the liberally biased traditional media.

What came out, however, was then filtered through the conservatively biased co-hosts. Same spin, different direction — from left to right on your TV screen.

If you subscribe to cable, try tuning to C-Span. This may be the only place where you'll find live convention coverage free of any commentary. Realize, however, you will see the Budweiser frogs ordering Miller Lite before you'll see a candidate saying anything nice about his opponent — at least until the morning of Nov. 6.

If you don't have cable, may I suggest the following: find a copy of Joe McGinness' The Selling of the President 1968. Read it, and remember the words of the late Marvin Gaye, "believe half of what you see...and none of what you hear."

RideFinders seeing progress

62 businesses are now participating in program

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A dramatic rise in the number of companies involved in car and van pooling led to across-the-board increases last year in the number of commuters and businesses taking advantage of the RideFinders program.

In July 1995, 12 companies were participating in the program, said Jane Smith, RideFinders program manager. By the end of the fiscal year June 30, that number had grown to 62 — an increase of 408 percent.

Also increasing was the number of commuters in the program's database — which more than doubled to 8,856.

Smith said the program is concentrating its efforts on businesses.

"Because we can alter the commuting habits of much larger numbers of people by reaching them through their employers, we're particularly encouraged to see such dramatic growth in this area," Smith said.

> 'Because we can alter the commuting habits of much larger numbers of people by reaching them through their employers, we're particularly encouraged to see such dramatic growth in this area.'
> — Jane Smith
> RideFinders manager

Companies participating in the RideFinders program include Boatmen's Bank, the U.S. Defense Mapping Agency, Maritz, St. John's Mercy Medical Center, Southwestern Bell, Union Electric and the U.S. Postal Service.

"The increases in the number of car pools and van pools currently registered with RideFinders indicates that more and more people are becoming aware of the many benefits of ridesharing on a regular basis," said Jane Smith, RideFinders program manager.

The number of car pools has grown by 48.6 percent in the past 12 months, and the number of passengers has more than doubled, she said.

Van pools grew by 47 percent, with the number of passengers increasing almost 34 percent.

She said the increases are good news for several reasons.

Smith said commuters saved more than $1 million in commuting costs last year.

One of the biggest benefits is to the environment.

"The increased numbers of car pools and van pools translated into a reduction of almost 8 million... miles traveled," she said. "This in turn kept 128.13 tons of carbon monoxide, 18.74 tons of volatile organic compounds and 21.9 tons of nitrogen oxides out of the air over St. Louis during the past year."

RideFinders is funded primarily through the Federal Highway Administration's Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality Improvement Funds.

The program is administered by the Madison County Transit District. It was set up in 1994 to help reduce vehicle emissions in the St. Louis region.

In Illinois it serves Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties. In Missouri it serves Franklin, Jefferson, St. Charles and St. Louis counties, including the city of St. Louis.

Edwardsville man says he will challenge Haine

An Edwardsville man has thrown his hat into the ring as a write-in candidate for Madison County state's attorney.

Independent candidate William R. Lambert, 53, will take on Democratic incumbent William Haine, who previously was running unopposed.

As a black man, Lambert said he has felt victimized and excluded by the two-party system in Madison County. When the idea to run first arose about three months ago, he sent a letter to other black voters in the area to get feedback on his proposal, he said.

He said he then sent the letter to white voters as well, and all of his responses were positive.

"A significant number of people who called were white," Lambert said. "People are very dissatisfied with the two-party system."

Lambert also emphasized that he has not received negative feedback about Haine, but rather positive comments about changing government in Madison County.

Lambert, a lifelong Madison County resident, has practiced law for 18 years.

Lambert said he is interested not only in prosecuting criminal cases, but also in addressing the causes of crime in Madison County.

"I have the opportunity to intercede in the beginning and to meet with kids before they start gang violence," he said.

"I may be naive, but I do believe (winning the election) is doable," the independent candidate said. "Not because of negatives of Bill Haine, but because of what I have to offer."

5 seeking Warfield position

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

New Madison County Board member Mac Warfield of Granite City was glad to accept his new position Wednesday, but regrets having to leave city government.

"I hate to leave the city council," Warfield, 6th Ward Alderman, said. "I get along real well with most of the aldermen.

"But I think I can help Granite City (from the county board position) with grants and things like that."

Warfield was sworn in to his county board post Wednesday, but has yet to officially resign his aldermanic seat.

Mayor Ron Selph said Wednesday that five candidates have approached him and asked him to consider appointing them as Warfield's replacement in the 6th Ward: postal service employee and school board member John Caudron, former aldermen Sharon Perjak and Walter Milton, former aldermanic candidate Charlie Cross and retired electrician John Petish Jr.

"They're exceptional candidates. Out of respect for Mac, I will wait until I receive his letter of resignation before making an appointment," Selph said.

Warfield wields considerable influence among his fellow aldermen and serves as chairman of both the Finance Committee and the Street and Alley Committee.

Milton also served as chairman of those committees during his tenure as alderman.

Football contest set

Attention armchair quarterbacks: If you have a knack for picking winners in pro football games, you can use your talent to win cash in the Journals' Pigskin Picks contest.

Look for the special page of Pigskin Picks ads in your Journal beginning Sunday, Aug. 25. You'll find a list of NFL games for the following week.

Guess the winner of each game, including the Monday night game. The person who guesses the most winners will win $40; the second-place winner gets $25.

The Monday night game will be used as a tie-breaker. Be sure to put down the total number of points you think will be scored in the game. The person closest to the total points, without going over, will be the winner in the event of a tie.

Entries for the first week's contest must be received by 5 p.m. Friday, Aug. 30.

Both the board and the audience rose and applauded as members Ray Romine and Frank Laub, Granite City Democrats, escorted Warfield to the front of the board room, where he was sworn in by Saltich.

Papa said that he had discussed the appointment with a number of board members who had spoken on Warfield's behalf.

"I know you'll be an asset to this board," Papa said.

Papa noted that Warfield is "no stranger to government" and that might be an understatement.

Warfield, a lifelong Granite City resident, is currently chairman of the Madison County Democratic Party Central Committee. He replaced John Bellcoff of Madison, who resigned from the post in 1995. Warfield also served as party chairman from 1984 to 1988.

A retired steelworker, Warfield is currently an alderman in Granite City's 6th Ward, having been appointed to the seat in 1994 and elected to a four-year term last year. He also served as alderman from 1979 until 1982, when he resigned to become the city's street superintendent. He served as street superintendent until 1991.

While he will resign his city post, Warfield will remain chairman of the county's Democratic party.

"I wouldn't give that up for nothing," Warfield said.

Warfield said he looked forward to serving in the post that his long-time friend served in.

"I knew Nellie real well, we were old friends," Warfield said. "It's kind of an honor to follow him."

Warfield will be running unopposed for the seat in the Nov. 5 election.

The men escaped in an unknown vehicle.

Madison County deputies later picked up three East St. Louis men in Eagle Park Acres and brought them to the scene, but witnesses did not identify them as the robbers, a report states.

Squad. Security remains heightened at the courthouse despite Callis-Rongey's absence.

"It is distressing to see a judge leave the bench for something like this," Byron said. "We had taken every precaution, with a 24-hour watch and restricted access to the courthouse, but I didn't want her exposed."

Callis-Rongey is a Granite City native and daughter of Lance Callis, a prominent local attorney.

Cases on the judge's docket until Thursday have been postponed indefinitely.

"It is not normal, but when you have this kind of extraordinary incident, you have to do more than just beef up security. You have to take extraordinary precautions," Byron said.

Florissant Police Chief Robert Lowery Sr., commander of the Major Case Squad, said his detectives made the decision that Callis-Rongey should take the leave of absence.

"It just makes sense that she should seek seclusion until McGinnis is apprehended," Lowery said.

A team of investigators with the Major Case Squad was taken off the case on Saturday after developing enough information to charge McGinnis. Greenville Police Department has taken over the investigation.

Officials had declined to comment on Callis-Rongey's plans last week, but Byron said Monday that her absence has become a public matter.

Art Voellinger

Pole vault on agenda for NCAA women

If you were one of the 210 million-plus United States television viewers of the 1996 Olympic Games, you saw a variety of sports.

However, even before the Games, the National Collegiate Athletic Association received a recommendation for a new women's event from the NCAA Men's and Women's Track and Field Committee. The sport is women's pole vault, and you can be sure if it becomes an official event by 1999, it will appear on the high school level as well as the Olympic level.

On the surface, the women's pole vault is valuable to the NCAA because it would mean 21 track events for both men and women. However, even before I read of the NCAA recommendation, I had heard the Illinois High School Association was receiving a push from folks up north, where women's gymnastics remains popular.

Apparently, there are those who think women gymnasts would be most capable of pole vaulting due to their size, weight and coordination.

When I posed the thought to O'Fallon High girls track coach Dick McCammack, who is recognized as one of the best coaches in the state, he just shook his head.

"I've heard about it (women's pole vault) but the event takes tremendous shoulder strength regardless if you are a man or a woman," McCammack said.

That put an end to my poll (sorry)...survey.

EXTRA INNINGS: Among the pleasantry of the recent Pam American baseball games at Fairview Heights was meeting umpire Chris Curless, a high school counselor from Midland, Texas.

Chris is a 29-year-old graduate of Northeast Oklahoma, where she was an outstanding softball player.

"I'm not doing this to make the major leagues," she said. "My goal is to umpire in the Olympics."

My bet is Chris' association with the Pan Am officials will lead her to her goal.

Chris told me she once met Pam Postema, the female umpire who reached an out-of-court settlement with major league baseball after her attempt to reach the majors stalled in the minor leagues.

"She told me there was no way a woman ever would make the major leagues," said Chris, who impressed me in a pre-Pan Am game when she called a Cuban runner out for not tagging up at third base on a fly ball to the outfield.

Fans of the Springfield team in the Junior American Legion state tourney at O'Fallon reminded me of a baseball adage of never giving up on a lefthanded pitcher.

Springfield native Jeff Fassero did something no other major league pitcher has done this season when he earned a complete-game victory over the Cardinals by striking out the last three batters in the ninth inning.

Fassero played high school ball at Springfield Griffin before attending Lincoln Land Community College. He was selected by the Cardinals in the June 1984 draft but bounced from the Cards to Chicago White Sox and Cleveland before signing with the Expos in January of 1991.

By coincidence, Fassero's teammate Kirk Rueter, a Nashville High grad and also a lefthander, was traded from Montreal to San Francisco this summer.

TEE NOTE: Among the highlights of the Wednesday Night women's league this summer at Yorktown was a hole-in-one by Belleville East softball coach Rita Menke.

Rita used an 8-iron for her 125-yard ace on No. 11.

OVERTIME: Congrats to Fairview Heights mayor Gail Mitchell and everyone involved with the 10-day Pan American baseball championships won by Team USA. Longacre Park and its main baseball facility stand as testimony to the baseball interest in the Southwestern Illinois area.

Clippers' reign draws to close

Playoff exit ends run for M-C champs

By Brian L. Jones
Correspondent

Player-manager Daren DePew is not sure how to assess the season Granite City just had in the Mon-Clair Baseball League.

His Clippers were by no means failures, going 23-11 overall with an 18-9 league record and a fourth-place finish in the Mon-Clair playoffs. The defending league champs also finished second behind East Alton-Bon Air in the North Division standings, going 17-7 in regular-season games.

But these are the Clippers. Anything less than first place is unacceptable. DePew and his players are conditioned that way. They had won back-to-back league playoff championships in 1992-93 and three of the previous four. They also had won the division title three straight years since 1993.

A early warning sign was Granite City's 1-2 pool record in June at the Prairie State Games, where it had won the gold medal last summer.

Granite City shortstop Jamie Hogan retires Mike McCarthy of Valmeyer as second baseman Jeff Stephens looks on during last Saturday's playoff game at Waterloo.

"We didn't even place this time," DePew said. "It was kind of a wake-up call for us because right after that, we came back and won the Valmeyer Tournament. After that, we felt like we were headed in the right direction. But we didn't play as well at the end of the year as we'd like."

The 23 wins were a distant memory after the Clippers got eliminated from the playoffs Aug. 17 in a 6-5 loss to Valmeyer in eight innings in Waterloo. They also lost 9-5 the day before to their bitter rival, Waterloo. A week earlier, Granite City opened the playoffs with a 10-6 win over Sauget.

Rebuilding golfers look to get back on course

By Brian L. Jones
Correspondent

The Madison County Golf Tournament begins at noon Monday at Oak Brook Golf Course in Edwardsville.

The six-player team event will be a season-opening barometer for the Granite City High School golf team. The rebuilding Warriors lost their top four scorers from last year's eight-man varsity rotation.

The most notable graduates are all-area standouts David Martin (Monmouth College) — who averaged 39.0 over nine holes as a senior — and Pat Schuman (St. Louis University). For the first time in many years, veteran coach Dwayne "Boone" Chaney went through the first week of practice still declaring his varsity lineup

"absolutely wide open."

"We have four lettermen back and they don't have all that much experience," said Chaney, whose Warriors will play their home matches at Arlington Golf Course.

The Warriors went 13-9 in dual matches last season. Seniors Tim Goskie and Chris Carpenter and juniors Pat Logan and Matt Foley are the four incumbents. But they in

"None of our returning lettermen averaged under 40 last year or close to it," Chaney

Petrillo, Warriors gearing up offense

By Brian L. Jones
Correspondent

It's ironic that Nick Petrillo has opted to coordinate the offense in his first season as head coach of the Granite City High School football team.

Petrillo, 49, specialized in defense through most of the 22 years he coached small college, prep or junior high football at five previous schools. Ron Yates, his new top varsity assistant and a former GCHS head coach, has organized the Warriors' defense during the first six days of preseason camp.

"It's funny because when I played here in high school at Granite City (from 1962-65) I was only a tailback and I never played defense," Petrillo said. "Then I played running back at Peru (Neb.) State College. When I went back to Peru State to coach in '82, the (head coach) said 'You're my defensive coordinator.' He said, 'You know offenses, don't you? Well, all you have to do is figure out how to stop them.' So I did that for three years there."

Petrillo also later became defensive coordinator and running backs coach for four seasons at Nevada (Mo.) High through 1988. He was then linebackers coach for one season at Evangel College in Springfield, Mo., followed by two seasons as defensive coordinator at Lindenwood College in St. Charles. He was head coach at Grigsby Junior High the last

Edwardsville coach nears national mark for wins

By Tim Carley
Correspondent

In what will be his last summer before receiving the recognition that has long been deserved, Edwardsville High golf coach Dick Gerber treated this summer like any previous one.

Gerber took over the helm of the Tigers' golf program in 1970 and what he has done in his tenure can simply be described as remarkable.

The Wood River resident stands in second place on the national high school list for golf wins.

He has led Edwardsville to 616 wins in his illustrious 25-year career, which is 11 from breaking the national record.

But contrary to what some might think, Gerber is not obsessed with breaking the record.

"Aside from my family and close personal friends, nobody really cares about the record, so I don't get too excited about it," Gerber said. "It's a shame, but that's the way it is."

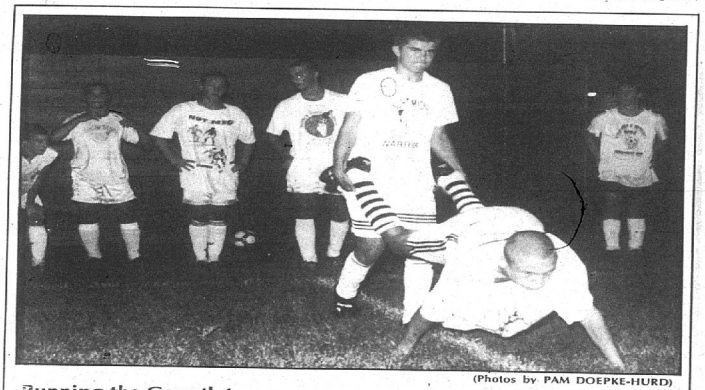

Gerber

When you've had the type of success that Gerber has had in his career, fellow coaches are naturally going to try and say it's the players and not coaching that results in victories.

Gerber disagrees with those selected individuals who think a coach only drives the van to the matches.

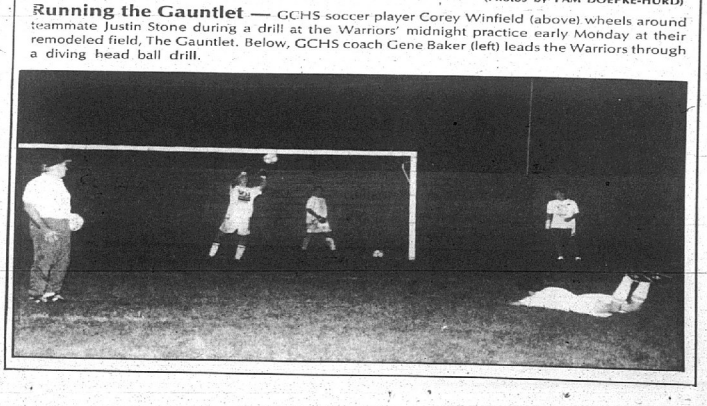

"A lot of people just don't understand what goes on," Gerber said. "People think if you have good players, it is easy to win matches. But noth-

'Black Sunday' set Sept. 29

The United Black Drag Racers Association (UBDRA) will hold its annual Black Sunday Race Extravaganza on Sunday, Sept. 29 at the newly renovated track and grounds of Gateway International Raceway.

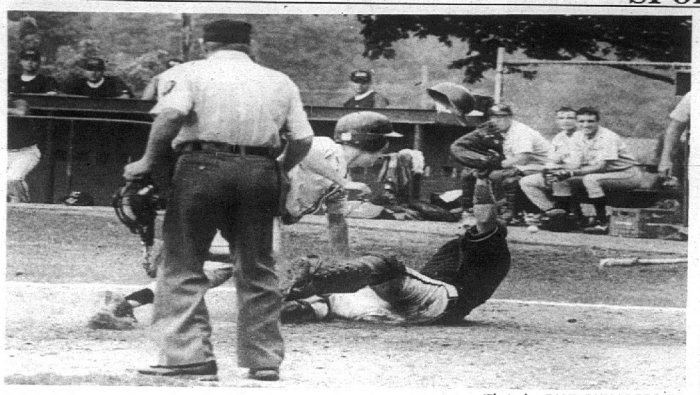

A family affair that started several years ago as a friendly grudge race for bragging rights has grown into an annual event attended by drag racing enthusiasts from all over the country. Last year's festivities were attended by more than 2,000, some from as far away as Michigan, Iowa, Tennessee, Florida and Louisiana.

This year promises an even greater showing. More then 300 cars are expected for this year's edition of Black Sunday. Fans will enjoy the special event races being planned, as the racers go all out for the large prize purses being awarded.

Again this year, a portion of the proceeds will be donated to charity. As in 1995, the event will benefit Faith House, a non-profit home for infants and toddlers from drug-abusive homes.

Advance tickets are $10 and are available from any UBDRA member and include an old-fashioned Sunday cookout lunch. The price for gate admissions will be $12. Coupons good for a $2 discount (for gate admissions only) are being offered at participating Arby's, All-Pro Auto Parts stores and the Casino Queen.

The gates will open at 10 a.m. with the eliminations scheduled to get under way at 1:30 p.m. For more information, call UBDRA president Darrell Williams at (314) 968-1720.

outs in the bottom of the seventh inning," DePew said. "The guy hits a two-run homer to tie the game. Then they win in extra innings. That was kind of the way our season went. We had moments when we struggled and times when we played well. We just weren't as consistent as we had been in the past."

DePew wasn't always dealing from a full deck. Pitcher Jeff Ridenour, who had an MVP-type hitting season in 1995, skipped the Clippers this summer to play for Champaign in the Central Illinois Collegiate League. Joe Wallace and Matt Tieman also played sporadically because of family commitments.

"At the end of our (regular season), we had a big doubleheader against Valmeyer," DePew said. "We ended up having to forfeit, which is something we hadn't done in about four or five years. If we win that doubleheader, we end up with first place in our division. Instead, we wind up fourth in the overall league standings."

The Clippers were so desperate for bodies, DePew had to coax former stars John Spotanski and Rich Schardan out of retirement just for the playoffs. Strangely enough, Spotanski led the team in postseason hitting, going 7-for-11 with two home runs and five runs batted in. Schardan split time with Jeff Stephens at second base and went 2-for-5 in the playoffs.

"We had a great (championship) run, but it's real hard to stay at the top once you get there," DePew said. "I still think we did pretty well this year. It's just that we can do much better."

Another weird statistic about Granite City: Left fielder Jason Wood, the No. 9 batter in the lineup, led the team in hitting (.528) and RBIs (16). With all stats listed for league-games only, Wood also tied Stephens, Spotanski and Harshany, the cleanup man, for the team lead with two homers.

Tim Hogan had his typical productive season in center field, hitting .363 and leading in stolen bases as the leadoff man. Stephens hit .489 in the No. 2 spot, while Jamie Hogan hit .295 batting third. Harshany hit .288 and first baseman John Moad hit .500 batting fifth.

DePew, the catcher, hit seventh behind Spotanski in the playoffs and batted .270. DePew was one of four Clippers who homered in the Sauget game, Moad, Schardan and Spotanski being the others. Right fielder Mark Winfield hit .272 in the No. 8 position.

Ace pitcher Darin Hendrickson, who got the first two playoff decisions, went 11-3 for the summer, winning twice in the Valmeyer Tourney. He was 6-1 in league games with a 1.31 earned run average.

Winfield went 3-1 in the league with a 4.50 ERA and Harshany was 2-1. Mark Begando was 0-1 as a relief pitcher and Jim Stout contributed as a reserve outfielder.

"We were pretty much the same veteran ballclub, so there are no excuses," DePew said. "There's no reason to believe we won't be back next year as one of the championship contenders."

ing is further from the truth."

Instead of wasting his time rehearsing his speech for when he eclipses the record, Gerber has spent the summer doing the things he loves — playing golf, running his dog and watching his beloved Chicago Cubs on television.

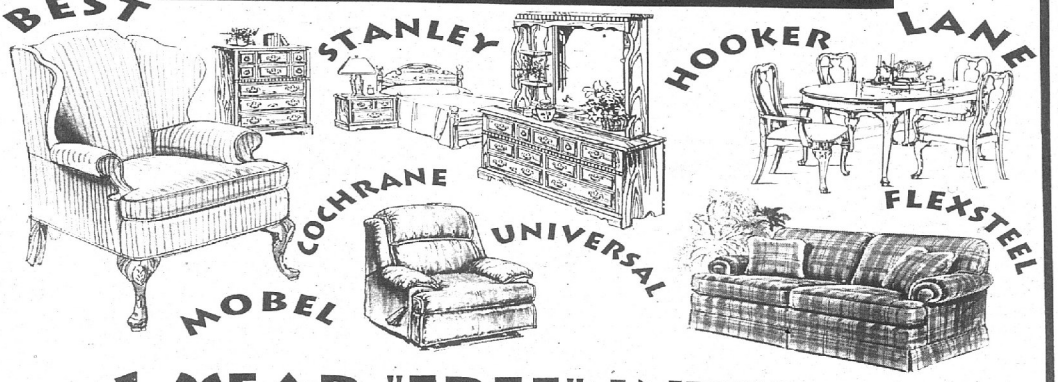

"I play in the John Stosky Moose League, which allows me to play a lot of different courses in the area," Gerber said. "I play a lot with (Cahokia High golf coach) John Latta at Grand Marais in East St. Louis along with the two professionals down there.

"About 12 or 16 people went with us to Governor's Run to celebrate my 50th birthday, which was nice. I even went up to Chicago and played the Illinois Golf Club with (former Peoria Manual golf coach) Earl Martin and saw a couple Cubs games. It's been a real fun summer."

four seasons.

"The way we have it set up right now, we're more like position coaches," said Petrillo, who began his coaching career as a Granite City South assistant from 1974-81. "I pretty much handle the running backs and quarterbacks and kind of coordinate the offense. Quite honestly, I'm coordinating everything and my (three) assistants are all learning it from me."

Yates, who guided the Warriors to their legendary 1986 upset win over defending national champion East St. Louis, works primarily with linebackers and defensive ends. This is his first year back after several years coaching Coolidge Junior High.

The GCHS turnout rate is up from recent years to 120 players in camp.

"We barely had enough helmets and equipment to go around," Petrillo said.

Assistants Daren DePew and Tim Moran are the only holdovers from the regime of former head coach Don Harris. Carl Luehman and Chuck Krause coach the sophomore team, while Gus Lignoul and former varsity assistant Al Lewis coach the freshmen.

"Daren's been here for a few years now and he's handling the defensive backs and the special teams, especially our kickers," Petrillo said. "Tim Moran mainly handles the offensive linemen."

With the new coaching staff comes equal opportunity for players to seize starting positions. While some returning veterans clearly head the depth chart at their positions — such as quarterback Kevin Harris, tailback Juanell Goodwin and offensive linemen Ryan Relleke and B.J. Neidhardt — Petrillo has not concerned himself with last year's starters.

"Obviously, the kids with experience tend to do a little bit better," Petrillo said. "We're looking at seniors first. They'll have to be beaten out by lowerclassmen."

The first week of practice has gone smoothly, though the players still have much to learn in the transition phase.

"They're learning a whole new system, both offensively and defensively," Petrillo said. "There's a lot of terminology difference. We're running multiple schemes on both sides. We're changing the footwork and the assignments for various offensive players. Defensively, (Harris) played the 4-3 scheme, but we're totally getting away from that with our even-man front."

The Warriors are fine-tuning for the season opener in eight days against visiting Cahokia.

"The work ethic of the kids has been encouraging," Petrillo said. "When we go into the Cahokia game, we'll probably have 50 to 60 percent of our offense in place. We expect to have around 70 to 80 percent of our defense in."

Petrillo admits being concerned about his very difficult schedule. The second nonconference game after Cahokia (8-3 last year) is against O'Fallon (9-1). The addition of SWC newcomers Edwardsville (11-1) and East St. Louis Lincoln (5-3) makes a rugged conference that much tougher. Even last-place Alton (1-8) now has former East Side coach Bob Shannon.

"Every once in a while, I feel like the Mizzou Tigers of the (new) Big 12 Conference," Petrillo said. "You look at our schedule and there's not a patsy on there. I believe at least six of those (seven opponents) have been in the playoffs the last two years."

Will GCHS fans be patient? The Warriors were only 7-29 the last four seasons under Harris. They were 2-7 last year, including 2-3 in conference.

Expectations are higher because Petrillo had four winning seasons at Grigsby, going 6-0 last year and 5-1 in 1994. He has tried to convey a sensible message to his players.

"Sure, we want to make things happen right now," Petrillo said. "But given our conference, a .500 record would be a really good season for us. All I ask the kids to do is play the very best they can. Regardless of what the scoreboard reads at the end of the game, if they gave their best effort, what more can you ask of a kid?"

said. "Their qualifying scores for the first two days of practice (Monday and Tuesday) weren't much better than where they left off. It's all up for grabs. But it's still early. We just know this will be a rebuilding year."

In fact, Chaney is looking closely at using four freshmen in his varsity lineup, another rarity in his more than 15 seasons at GCHS. The freshman prospects are Jeff Jerden, Brett Briggs, Dan Harper and Ty Suhre. Chaney called this the best group of ninth-graders he has seen in several years.

"Jeff Jerden shot 89 on his first day of qualifying, which is very impressive," Chaney said. "These four freshmen could very well be playing some varsity this year. We try to keep most of the younger kids to see if they'll develop. We don't have any outstanding players, but we might be very competitive, especially as the season moves along."

Logan had the best qualifying score after the first two days, firing a round of 81 on Tuesday. His opening score was 86. Guskie shot 88 and 83, Carpenter's scores were 92 and 83 and Foley shot 88 and 94.

Chaney has six other seniors trying to advance from the junior varsity level last year.

Logan Foley

"John Mills, one of those seniors, shot an 87 and an 84, which is competitive," Chaney said. "Charles Stepanek had a 91 and an 87. Chris Ousley shot 93 and 92. Then we had a fourth senior in that group whose scores weren't very good, but he still may improve."

The remaining seniors are Jeremy Gutierrez, who shot 87 and 96 in early qualifying, and Jake Bathon, who scored a 91 and 92. Three other contenders with JV experience are junior Mark Achenbach (94-97) and sophomores Matt Roustio (93-102) and Steve Schroeder (99-96).

"None of those JV kids have any varsity experience at all," said Chaney, who hopes the Warriors won't break their long string of consecutive winning seasons. "We're going to have a tough time this year, maybe. But we're going to try and have fun and hope everybody improves a little."

Midnight madness

Soccer fans flock to season's first practice at GCHS

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Boys soccer at Granite City High School has a tradition that is second to none in the state.

Since the Illinois High School Association initiated a boys soccer tournament in 1972, the Warriors have won 10 state championships. The only other school to win more than one championship is Collinsville High School, which has four state titles.

There are a number of reasons for GCHS success in soccer, including a youth program that begins at age four, a nationally-recognized head coach in Gene Baker, a willingness by players to work hard in the pre-season and the strong support of parents and other fans.

Nearly 500 of those fans — students, parents and other supporters — showed up at the newly-renovated Gauntlet at midnight Monday to watch the Warriors' first soccer practice of the season.

"I thought that was a very good show tonight," Baker said after the hour and a half workout. "That's more people than we have had at some games.

"The community really got behind us. I think that inspires the kids to work hard."

The practice was the first of three grueling sessions totaling nearly six hours Monday, the first day schools could hold organized practice under IHSA rules.

Baker and his coaching staff — assistants Dave Ames, Virgil Kirksey and Barry Grote and volunteer Al Harris — are optimistic about the team's chances for another successful season.

"We've got a lot of work to do in a hurry," Baker said. "This is really what is considered a 'junior group.' But I think the kids will work hard and be able to play with anybody this season."

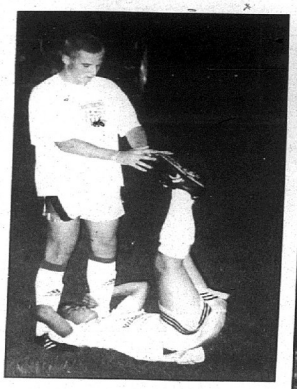

The Warrior kickers' schedule is one of the toughest in the St. Louis area, featuring matches against annual powerhouses Vianney, CBC, Collinsville, St. Louis University High and Howell North, as well as Edwardsville, last year's supersectional champion.

Along with the Granite City Tournament of Champions (Oct. 7-12), which traditionally features the best teams in the Midwest, another season highlight will be a Sept. 20-22 trip to Kansas City to play two national juggernauts — Rockhurst and Thomas Aquinas.

Rockhurst is usually one of the top four teams in the state and Aquinas was ranked number one in the nation a couple of years ago, Baker said.

The Warriors open the season Aug. 31 at Peoria Richwoods.

The Warriors will be led by senior captains Kyle Briggs, Eric Edwards and Scott Mills.

Horoscope

Thursday, Aug. 22

Intuition runs through the atmosphere, which is heavily charged by water signs. An educated guess now cannot only pay off but can also bring considerable profit. Lunch with the gang is most fun when you call a truce and avoid sensitive subjects. People are touchy enough about loaded topics — there's no need to stir things up. Lovers can talk it all over now.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You are greatly rewarded when you fine-tune your current plan of attack. Leave room for unexpected occurrences later. Let an insecure co-worker dominate and you'll look better. An ailing friend needs you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Exhibitionism is a necessary step to publicize your project. People want to get to know the real you. Experimentation helps you know exactly what you want. Initiate a social outing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Stick to your original thought. Romance blossoms when you motivate yourself. Accentuate your best features. Clear up a misunderstanding before it's blown out of proportion. Hobbies are favored.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Negotiate and compromise for best results. You have created a timeless and impressive piece of work. Hitches in communication may complicate situation, but remain optimistic. Seek out guidance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Use your gift for making people feel good. A relative assumes you are right. A long, intense discussion brings fresh air into an old subject. Avoid those who bring you down or depress you. Prioritize carefully.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). A detour proves to be a blessing in disguise. Locate a lost item through phone calls. Work is lucrative as well as enjoyable. Your natural charm works wonders in interviews and public situations. Your appeal is broad.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Double-check your work, and question your sources to assure quality. You can snap yourself out of a temporary bout with depression. A shared experience brings you closer to a new friend. You have clear picture of the days ahead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). A friend or companion needs validation from you. Remember that notions of happiness are relative. Allow yourself time to digest a decision before acting. Enjoy the evening with your family or close friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Clear out undesirable clutter and you'll perform better. Concentrate on standing out, originality and creativity. A pending negotiation is resolved. The more you do, the happier you are.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Good intentions get you far. Grant someone's request if it is reasonable. Being tolerant today is essential. Someone of the opposite sex is seriously interested in you. Confrontations prove that you were right all along.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Changes in the domestic sphere improve your concentration and serenity. Let your instincts guide you. Ask plenty of questions, and make sure you're on top of things. Push yourself and you'll shine.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Try to put yourself in others' shoes. Personal interactions lead to strong bonds. You lead the way in your field. Be proud of your passion and enthusiasm. Keep notes and observations in writing.

TRIVIA

TV has many classics

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

I am a sitcom junkie.

Not every situation comedy that hits the air keeps my attention, but the good ones are some of my favorite forms of entertainment.

There are episodes of "Green Acres" I would rate higher than most motion picture comedies I have seen. When this program was first shown on the air I was a little kid, so I didn't appreciate it. It was not until I was older and saw it in reruns that I understood what insane situations it presented. It was often surreal and hilarious. Mr. Haney is absolutely one of my favorite characters on any show.

For consistently strong entertainment, I rate "Taxi" at the top of the list. Even the best sitcoms seem to lose steam after a few years, but "Taxi" kept me laughing to the end of its run.

"Cheers" was watchable to the end of its run, but the first several years of its shows were head and shoulders above the last. Diane was a much more interesting character than Rebecca and, while I enjoyed Woody, he was no match for the Coach. Sam, Carla, Norm and Cliff all remained great parts of the show throughout the episodes, however. "The Cosby Show" also was strong for several years of its original telecasts, though the early season programs were much better than the later ones.

"The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "The Bob Newhart Show" are two more comedy classics I want to mention. Both were intelligently written and provided me with many laugh-filled hours. "Barney Miller" is another personal favorite.

Of recent vintage, "Seinfeld" has been the most interesting sitcom. This past season was uneven, but the "Soup Nazi" episode is a classic. The show is the best I've seen at making fun of real-life situations. Kramer is on my top 10 list of sitcom characters.

Over the past season, "3rd Rock From the Sun" has had me laughing the hardest of any new comedy. Dick, Sally, Tommy and Harry make a great combination of aliens who unwittingly insult people throughout the day.

There are many more situation comedies I've followed, but, as I'm running long in this introduction to this week's trivia, it's time to bring on the questions.

1. What is the name of the family's pet bat on "The Munsters"?
2. On "Bosom Buddies," Kip and Henry dress as women to stay in what ladies-only hotel?
3. Late in the "Night Court" series, Bull Shannon's given name is finally revealed. What does it turn out to be?
4. What is the name of the town drunk on "The Andy Griffith Show"?
5. What is the real name of the character Fonzie on "Happy Days"?
6. What is the dog's name on "Mad About You"?
7. "Monk and Mindy" is set in which city?
8. On "Welcome Back, Kotter," the high school is named after which president?
9. Which sitcom character wins Silver Sow Awards for excellence in his specialty?
10. What is the name of the handyman character on "Newhart"?

ANSWERS: 1. Igor. I love this program. If you see me, ask me to do my Herman Munster impression. 2. The Susan B. Anthony. 3. Nostradamus. 4. Otis Campbell. 5. Arthur Fonzarelli. "Happy Days" was great for two or three seasons, but got dull after that. 6. Murray. 7. Boulder. Colo. 8. James Buchanan. I enjoyed this show when it was first on, but it didn't age well. 9. Les Nessman, the radio newsman on "WKRP in Cincinnati," who wins his awards for his bad reports. 10. George Utley.

Kevin Carbery can be heard as a member of "The KMOX Trivia Party" radio show from 8 to 11 p.m. Sundays on KMOX-AM (1120).

THE LAW AND YOU
By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes individuals will contact this office inquiring about a step-parent adoption. A typical situation involves the minor child of a woman who remarries following a divorce. Many times in this situation the step-father will want to adopt the minor child. Typically, the question arises as to what rights and obligations the parties have if the adoption should take place.

A step-father in this situation needs to know that once the adoption takes place, the birth certificate will be changed to reflect him as the father of the child. It is just as if the child was originally born to him in the eyes of the law. Should the parents ever divorce, the former step-father will be ordered to pay child support if the mother obtains custody. Furthermore, upon his death the child will be entitled to all rights of inheritance which otherwise would accrue.

In one recent case, a divorced mother was remarried approximately three years after the original Judgment of Dissolution was entered. The step-father decided to adopt her eight year old daughter, not fully realizing all that this entailed. When the adoption took place, the rights of the biological father were terminated.

Approximately two years later, the husband and wife obtained a divorce. A custody fight ensued, and the mother obtained custody with visitation to the father. He was ordered to pay 20% of his take home pay as child support for the minor child. He later indicated that he certainly never envisioned paying child support for a minor that was not his biological child.

Approximately one year after this, the mother attempted to move to Michigan. In a case such as this, the burden of proof is on the custodial parent to show that the move is in the best interest of the child. The father opposed the move, arguing that he would lose meaningful contact with the child if she were to move away.

The mother attempted to argue that he was not the biological father of the child, and therefore he had a lesser right to argue against the move. The court rejected this argument, noting that he had full rights and obligations as if the child had been born to him originally. The court ruled in favor of the father in this case.
